DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 1-15, 22-28, 30-39, 41-50 and 52-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's admitted Prior Art.

Paragraphs 0004 and 0005 of the specification state that the prior art includes methods for error detection of operations, including addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, for mental calculation verification through use of digital roots. The claims differ from the prior art in that they call for the method to be performed in a computer processor, perhaps by way of computer instructions, and apparatus claims are recited including means for language corresponding to the method. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement the well-known mental calculation verification method using digital roots in a computer processor because it is desirable to know when errors, including calculation errors, occur in a computer processor.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-11 and 30-62 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The claims are directed to a method, process or system for performing a sequence of steps which is merely a program per se. While the program contains functionally descriptive material the recording of the functionally descriptive material on some computer-readable medium, which would enable the functionality to be realized, fails to be recited.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 16-21 and 29 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
